School Budget Tops $1 Million

LAYING THE DUST - The city is treating dusty streets with a new method to keep dust down. Oil is mixed with gravel and dirt to make a "meal" then this is rolled and packed down to provide a dust-free surface. Streets around the West 6th St. housing units were being treated last week.

Area Roundup

New Emergency Number Is Ready

HEARNE

As of August 7, Hearne residents have an almost instantaneous link with police, fire and ambulance services it was announced by the phone company. ### 'Minimal Narcotics Problem' Noted

ROCKDALE

Rockdale Police Chief Truman White told members of the Rockdale Noon Lions Club last Wednesday that there is a minimal narcotics problem in the city, but that "98 percent of the city's teenagers are the best to be found anywhere." ### Use For Field Phones?

BELTON

From Belton Journal editor Jim Russell's column: "Not until recently did I know what those Baylor football coaches were doing with the telephones on the sidelines. Those were dial-a-prayer calls. This year they may not need such calls, judging by the enthusiasm and spirit Grant Teaff and his staff are generating."

Kenneth Benard Manjang of Killeen and two juveniles were taken into custody about 3:15 a.m. Wednesday after Cameron patrolman Wayne Brinkley became suspicious of the trio while they were parked at a service station on West 4th.

Further investigation by Brinkley showed a large number of items in the youth's car, including tape players, walkie talkies, and CB radio equipment.

Police Chief Felipe Martinez checked with other police departments about stolen goods, and found out the items had been stolen from cars in Bryan between 10 p.m. and midnight Tuesday.

Bryan police picked up the trio Wednesday after warrants were issued for their arrests.

Band Boosters Club Appeals For Funds

School trustees heard an appeal from members of the Band Boosters for funds for the Yoe High Band, during their meeting Thursday evening.

The school board members also accepted resignations and hired a number of new teachers and a principal.

The appeal for funds noted that the band is not included in the school budget, and many of the school's instruments are worn out or need extensive repairs.

Spokesman for the group, Lawrence Zolt, said the band has never been included in the budget, and the club had purchased some instruments in past years but more were needed and were expensive.

Supt. D. R. Dodson cited the fact that $2000 is being set aside each year to purchase new band uniforms, but said the band was not included in the budget as such.

He agreed to meet with the new band director to work out a program for replacement and repair, and funds for this will be voted at the next school board meeting.

Resignations accepted included those of Minnie Ola Devine, Johnny Reeves, Shirley Gunter, Jerry Sechrist, Willyne Stanislaw, and Ron Murdock.

A new principal was elected for Cameron Junior High. He is William Huffman.

Also hired were Helen Huffman, Barbara Adamek, Kenneth C. Freeman, Sharon A. Gandy, A. C. Henderson.

son Jr., Karen E. Lilley, Karer McKemie, Robert Nance, Sandra K. Slater, Jeffrey D. Webster and Naomi Verner.

Bids were let on bread to Butter Krust, milk to Pure Milk, and gasoline to Humble.

Trustees also voted to have the school hours run from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. for the first few weeks of school until the weather cools off.

Fact And Example...

It was a pilot project, that is, this town, at least, had never enjoyed the assistance of Texas Highway Dept. vehicles in bringing off a clean-up drive which hauled away everything but empty, delapidated houses.

It would seem this approach would encourage future annual or semi-annual drives of equal magnitude, which would find less and less major junk and debris each additional time. It would encourage property owners to haul stuff away as it accumulates, not after it rusts or bends to collapse under the weight of the elements and time.

Response was good despite rains Thursday, we understand. The City may extend the pickup schedule because of weather.

Whatever, this effort shows what planning and execution can do in fact and in example for a modern small city.

Hard Head, Soft Spot

There is no loyalty like love. If it embarrasses adults to read about such things, it is only because most of us forget what counts in the scrap to acquire what doesn't.

Daughter Les and son Martin took their first flight by themselves the other day. To Florida to visit an uncle and aunt.

By way of routine, I called to see how the flight went. And Leslie answered.

"Guess what?," she said, all 13 and right off. "Guess who I sat by on the plane?"

"Don't know," said I. "A movie director," she said.

"What was his name?" said I.

"I don't remember," she said, "but he's making a movie called 'The Senator.'" She briefly described what obviously was a ball for them.

"Don't see many movies," came the response, "But that's one movie we'll see."

"Great," she said. Here's Martin, who bounced in and said "Hi!" and who was described by a proud uncle about being a porpoise when it came to swimming.

Some other small talk and back to Leslie who in closing made my day, week and year.

"Daddy, I love you." Hard head and all, I hung up quite softly.

It is interesting how often people attack what you are because of what they are not.

Napoleon Has Englishmen Arguing Over Anniversary

By Jacques Edinger

FARNBOROUGH, England — The last emperor of France, in his grave for almost 100 years, has managed to spark intense controversy among the inhabitants of this pleasant English country town.

He did it by being buried here.

Just as the British and French are planning to draw together in the European Common Market after centuries of alternating alliance and rivals, the Emperor Napoleon III has Englishmen arguing about plans to commemorate the 100th anniversary of his death.

The emperor's tomb, in the church which his empress built here, is among the ornaments of this community southwest of London.

Farnborough is also the site of a celebrated annual air show and it is near Aldershot, one of the biggest and oldest garrison towns in the country. Its municipal officials, alert to new honors for the town, made elaborate plans to welcome distinguished visitors expected to honor Napoleon III on the anniversary next January.

The local council plans to spend $2,500 on the occasion, inviting guests to a luncheon, decorating Farnborough's streets, and setting up closed-circuit television for a special mass to be held at the church abbey.

The controversy began when the community's tenants and residents association heard about the plans. They demanded to know how much the meal in the emperor's honor was going to cost, and who was to be invited.

The association's secretary, Muthu Umapathy, asked what Napoleon III had ever done for Farnborough, and he suggested the answer was nothing -- "apart from the fact that he is buried here, and I do not think he had much choice in that matter."

The association, said Umapathy, could propose better uses for $2,500 such as providing milk for schoolchildren or fencing off a local brook for the safety of children.

Helping to organize the Farnborough ceremonies is a Paris-based group, "The Friends of Napoleon III," created to rehabilitate the emperor's memory.

This group is arranging a full-scale pilgrimage to the tomb, and it promises that the guests will include the emperor's heir, Prince Napoleon.

The 18-year reign of Napoleon III, which ended in disaster in the Franco-Prussian war in 1870, is still a source of controversy among the French.

Captured at Sedan when his army was crushed there, the emperor was held in Germany, then joined the Empress Eugenie in exile at Chislehurst, near London. She had fled there when the republic was declared in France, ending France's second empire.

Daniel Apparent 'Shoo-In'

BY BILL BOYKIN
AUSTIN

Rep. Price Daniel Jr. of Liberty apparently will take over the House of Representatives speakership without opposition next January.

Withdrawal of Rep. Frank Calhoun of Abilene from the speaker's race last week, after concluding that Daniel was too far out front to catch, left the 31-year-old attorney from Liberty free of a major challenger.

Rep. James E. Nugent of Kerrville, who had planned to enter the contest earlier, endorsed Daniel.

Before Calhoun's withdrawal, Daniel claimed more than 100 commitments from House members or nominees.

"So many of the old and new members had committed to my opponent before I got into the race, that my continuance in the campaign would place a burden on my supporters that I do not feel justified in causing," said Calhoun.

Daniel, son of former Gov. Price Daniel, came from a long way back to emerge as the shoo-in candidate for speaker.

When Rep. Rayford Price of Palestine won the post in special session last spring after resignation of former Speaker Gus Mutscher, he was considered a cinch to keep the job during the 63rd Legislature.

But Price was defeated for re-election to his House seat in the June 3 Democratic runoff primary by Rep. Fred Head of Troup.

Daniel, meanwhile, had been busy rounding up commitments from incumbent law makers and new nominees. He tries to dodge being labeled a liberal and prefers the term "progressive." He has emphasized need for legislative reform and is pledged to hold the speakership only one term.

SAFETY COURSE

Texans who complete a new defensive driving course after September 1 can become eligible for a 10 per cent reduction in their annual auto insurance policies.

Texas Safety Association has accepted responsibility for coordinating the National Safety Council course.

The course will cost about $10 or less per person, and the resulting credit is good for three years.

Individual savings over the three-year period are estimated at about $45 -- or $43 million statewide. Duplications are not allowed for the new course in addition to the driver training course.

In families with two or more cars, the principal drivers of each car will have to take the course to qualify for credit on all vehicles. After the three-year period, the course must be repeated by drivers to continue qualification for the 10 per cent credit.

PARTIES CERTIFIED

Two new political parties, La Raza Unida and the Social Workers Party, have been certified for places on the November 7 general election ballot in Texas.

Secretary of State Bob Bullock said it was his duty to certify the parties since they filed more than the required number of 22,365 signatures necessary for ballot position.

The American Party and the New Party, which did not file enough signatures, seek to get on the ballot anyway by federal court action.

La Raza Unida is waging an aggressive campaign for governor, with Ramsey Muniz of San Antonio as its candidate. Both parties also have candidates for U.S. senator, lieutenant governor and most other major statewide offices.

SPECIAL SESSION

Governor Preston Smith may be cooling a little on the idea of a September special session on insurance reform, but he insists the idea is still alive.

"I'm pretty flexible," said Smith. "If somebody can bring me in some facts that would show me there would be no purpose served in calling a session, I would not even pretend to be in a mood to waste $33,000 a day (estimated session cost) of the taxpayers' money."

On the other hand, Smith said, if he could be shown that legislation to reduce insurance rates could be passed, he would not hesitate to summon lawmakers back to work.

Elementary Registration Thursday

All students who have never attended a Cameron Public School in grades 1-5 will register for the coming school year on Thursday, August 17, from 8-12 a.m. and 1-4 p.m. at the Ada Henderson School.

Students registering for the first grade must have a certified health record of their immunizations, and a birth certificate in order to register.

All other students need only to bring their health records.

This registration is not for Kindergarten and First Grade students who were registered during the Spring Round-Up, nor is it for any student who was enrolled the last day of school of the previous school year.

All registered students whose health record is not up to date are urged to get the necessary immunization dates on record so that enrollment on August 28 will not be delayed.

Problems Beset Olympic Roof

MUNICH — The $50 million see-through Olympic roof has sprung a few leaks -- and had also changed color in places.

Olympic officials admit that the unseasonal weather in July, which fluctuated wildly from sweltering heat to torrential downpours, revealed several holes in the enormous canopy. Strong sunshine too discolored the tinted plexiglass over the swimming pools.

The 88,956 square yards roof -- described here as the largest in the world -- has already been criticized for its cost. The news that repairs would have to be made brought caustic comments in the Bavarian press and parliament.

The leaks have been plugged -- but new plates to replace the patches on the roof probably cannot be fitted before the games start on Aug. 26.

There were complaints, too, about the cycling track and the volleyball stadium as a 12-day series of test events got under way. The Soviet Union's chief volleyball coach Givi Achvlediani, said after the first training session for a weekend volleyball competition that the lighting was not good enough.

The strong lights dazzled the players, he said, while the walls were too pale to pick out on the white ball, a factor which could also detract from the enjoyment of spectators.

Letters

August 10, 1972

Dear Mr. Luecke: You have scored again in a recent column, in our opinion.

For a person to bare their heart and speak of the 'deeply religious', but not the 'churchy kind', deserves some encouragement. That does not minimize the importance of the church, but OH! If the pews were filled with honest hearts instead of religious facades, because who are we fooling. 'Man looks on the outward appearance, but God looks on the heart.'

The One who found out all the answers came saying, "I came forth from God and I shall proceed back to Him", and He learned this from the pressures, frustrations and persecutions he suffered while sojourning here. If we will only bare our hearts I believe we will all agree that this is the supreme desire of each of us: Where did we come from, why are we here and where are we going?

Respectfully,

Seafood For Dieters

Millions of Americans are losing millions of pounds, and they are doing it on diets which call for seafood five times per week.

Weight watchers have discovered that seafood is high in complete, body-building protein, rich in many of the essential vitamins and minerals and yet low in fats and calories.

If you're currently fighting the "Battle of the Bulge," seafood is a delicious and nutritious way to lose weight according to Miss Cindy Gray, seafood consumer specialist for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. "Your local seafood dealer can introduce you to an ocean of low-calorie delights which can be prepared in a variety of cooking methods and perked up with low-calorie sauces and colorful garnishes," said Miss Gray.

Instead of a high-calorie dessert, the meal can be rounded off with nutritious fruits and vegetables.

Redfish In Wine Sauce
2 pounds fresh redfish fillets or other fish fillets

1 1/2 teaspoons salt
dash pepper
3 tomatoes, sliced
1/2 teaspoon salt
dash pepper
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons margarine, melted
1/2 cup skim milk
1/3 cup dry white wine
1/2 teaspoon crushed basil
chopped parsley

Skin fillets. Sprinkle fillets on both sides with salt and pepper. Place fillets in a single layer in a greased baking dish, approximately 12x8x2 inches. Arrange tomatoes over top of fillets. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Blend flour into butter. Add milk gradually and cook until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in wine and basil. Pour sauce over top of tomatoes. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 25 to 30 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Sprinkle with parsley. Makes six servings of approximately 180 calories each.

THE INFORMED CONSUMER

BY CRAWFORD C. MARTIN
Attorney General of Texas

"But Mommy, why can't pennies and a nickel to pay I have this toy? I have three for it." Perhaps you've heard this naive plea from your youngster. Television, radio, and newspapers keep the young under constant pressure to buy, buy, buy. It is consequently essential that a child learns the wise use of money from his earliest years.

Money is like any other tool: using it intelligently comes only from direct experience. Even before children reach school age, they have many occasions to use money - for toys, gifts, snacks. It's a good idea to take your preschooler along on shopping trips and allow him to make a small purchase of his own. Let him give the money to the salesperson. It's also useful to explain the relative value of different coins.

During the years of 6 through 12, a child should be guided to plan his spending and set short-term goals for savings. At this age, your child's attitudes toward money and how it should be spent are influenced greatly by his friends. He may also go through phases, such as pennypinching one month and splurging the next.

For teens, it seems everywhere they turn requires money. Social life and school life are well mixed-up with the dollar sign. Give your teen greater responsibility in planning for his personal needs and wants, as well as allowing him to participate in family financial discussions. You can help him understand the use of cash and credit by setting up a spending plan to meet daily needs and a savings plan to meet future goals.

A weekly allowance is a good idea and it's never too early to start. Let your child be responsible for as many routine expenses as he can handle - lunches, school supplies, grooming aids, snacks. It's important for him to make mistakes early, so let him spend the money as he wishes. Jobs around the house, such as washing the dishes or taking out the garbage, should not be paid for. They're part of the family responsibility. The allowance is not a wage, but a device to teach your child how to manage his money. Money should be emotion-free and not influenced by other factors. It is a symbol of barter and not a sign of approval or punishment.

Set a good example and re-examine your own money habits. Your children will be smart consumers tomorrow if you teach them proper money management today. When your child leaves home, he should know how to deal with dollars and sense. If he's ready or not depends largely on you.

Mexican-Americans Not Content With State In Life

COLLEGE STATION

Remember those grade "D" westerns on the late, late show, complete with a border town populated by several hundred easy-going Mexican-Americans, content with their state in life?

Well, like the six-shooter that shot 72 times, that particular image of the Mexican-American is no longer realistic, according to sociologists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Michael C. Kleibrink and Dr. David C. Ruesink of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology at Texas A&M University have found that earlier views of the Mexican-American as content with their status may not apply anymore.

College Bound Vets Should Contact VA

The Veterans Administration today reminded college bound veterans that they should contact VA as soon as possible to avoid unnecessary delay in their monthly education allowance checks.

Jack Coker, Director of the Waco VA Regional Office offered these additional tips for veterans looking forward to getting started in college:

"The first thing a veteran should do," Coker explained, "is to decide on an educational objective. He should then choose a school and apply for admission as soon as possible.

"The veteran then should request a certificate of eligibility from the nearest VA office. VA will send two copies of the certificate, which must be submitted to the school. The school will endorse one copy and forward it to the VA Regional Office," he said.

The VA official strongly suggested that the veteran check back with the school to make certain the certificate has been forwarded. This is to help insure that the veteran starts receiving monthly education allowance checks promptly.

A study made by the sociologists, revolving around a manpower training program of the Vought Aeronautics Division of Ling-Temco-Vought, shows that "Spanish-Americans, Mexican-Americans, and Mexican-Americans nationally, a strong dissatisfaction and bitterness toward their inability to earn a living."

The training program centered around four counties bordering Mexico, all of which are suffering from an overabundance of manpower. LTV established three training centers in the counties and recruited 684 residents, of which 90 per cent were Mexican-Americans.

Each man received a subsistence allowance during the initial four-week job training period and was paid during the eight-week on-the-job training period. Funds were provided to move the families from their homes to the Dallas-Fort Worth area, where LTV has a plant.

Kleibrink and Ruesink analyzed the feelings of the relocatees several times after the move. They also asked the Mexican-American to compare their life before the move to their current one.

Of those who stayed with the program for at least six months, 71.5 per cent felt that they were living a better life after the move. Of those who left the program, 58.7 per cent felt they were living a better life.

Many of those participating felt that they could not have done so without some kind of financial aid. Almost 46 per cent of the relocatees felt they could not have entered the program without some kind of help and about 43 per cent felt they could not have moved without assistance.

Proper Care Plugs Leak In Spending

Following care and use instructions can plug the leak in spending, according to Mrs. Doris Myers, home management specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Almost everything lasts longer with proper care," Mrs. Myers emphasized. "Clean, oil and repair items as soon as needed or recommended to make operations easier and safer."

The Texas A&M University specialist suggested that when you buy a product, learn how to care for it. Avoid items that aren't tagged with care instructions.

"Proper labels will give specific use and care directions," Mrs. Myers noted. "If the label is missing, ask the salesman for one. The tag may have dropped off and he can provide another one."

She added that asking the salesman will reinforce the use of labels that offer clear instructions.

"Remember," the specialist pointed out, "when the purchase lasts longer, your money does too."

One of the more surprising figures came out of a search for alternatives to the daytime training program. Almost 60 per cent of the relocatees said that they or their friends would enter such a program if it was held at night, even if it did not have a training allowance. Apparently, those who entered had their eyes on future goals rather than the training allowance, surmised Kleibrink and Ruesink.

From their data, the sociologists determined that moving up in the world is a major goal of the relocated Mexican-American. The chance to change occupations was given as the major reason for entering the training program.

They also concluded that economic difficulties may prevent Mexican-Americans from entering a training program or moving, but that once the economic barriers were removed, they were willing to do so.

Bangladesh Is Slowly Recovering

By Gerald Raizin
Reuter Correspondent

BANGLADESH

Bangladesh, the former province of East Pakistan, is making a painfully slow recovery from the wounds of last year's civil war which ended in its secession.

Panchdona, for instance, 25 miles south of Dacca, suffered severely in the fighting. About 100 people were killed, many more fled to safety in India, the bazaar was almost completely destroyed by Pakistan army shelling, and many of its houses were burned down.

More than seven months after "liberation," as the Bengalis refer to the creation of their new state -- signs of economic recovery are few. Yawning gaps in the market area mark the spot where shops used to stand, and the school is a mere shell with scorch holes all over the walls.

Yet its people remain stoically cheerful, convinced that their prime minister, Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, will help them.

The aid so far from the government has been small -- about four dollars for each family whose house was partially destroyed and about 14 dollars for those who lost everything.

Nothing has been granted for rebuilding shops, and the weaving industry is at a standstill because of a shortage of yarn. This has increased unemployment among the 15,000 villagers who live in Panchdona and 22 other nearby settlements.

Rice, the basic ingredient of the Bengali's diet, is available but prices have almost doubled since last year.

Despite the faith in Mujib -- "If we die, we will die giving our vote for Mujib," said landowner Nayeb Ali Mia -- public discontent with some of his ruling Awami League officials is growing.

The local Awami League secretary sat glum-faced as villagers complained that too much money intended for them was being siphoned away into other pockets. "It is just the same as before, when we were in Pakistan," said one. "The amount we get is just chicken-feed."

A reporter who visited rural areas around Kushtia in southwest Bangladesh found much the same picture. Villagers said they believed some Awami League members had made fortunes from the black market or by smuggling goods across the border to India where prices are generally higher.

There was also resentment among local government employees against those in Dacca and other cities.

The staff at the small railway station of Bherama had not been paid for months, and had started distributing among themselves the money collected in fares from passengers.

Villagers subsisted on wheat and "chhatu," a pounded grain powder soaked in water. Mustard oil and kerosene were luxury items.

Next to water, the most popular drink in the world is tea.

News Stories Bring Gift For Methodist Home Ranch

WACO
The power of the press was proven again recently when another news story was responsible for another gift to Methodist Home Boys Ranch in Waco.

A gift of about $150,000 from the estate of the late J. R. Edwards, former Fort Worth mayor, business, civic and church leader, will be used to build the first home unit at the Boys Ranch.

"I have just read the Boys Ranch story. Mrs. Davis and I noted that all you need to get into full swing at the ranch is a home unit for boys. We talked this over. In her father's estate there is a trust fund. About $150,000 is the Methodist Home's part. We should like for this to go for underwriting the first home unit at the Boys Ranch," said Davis, Fort Worth businessman and son-in-law of the late Edwards.

Some two years ago, J.T. Stevens of Arlington gave Methodist Home 1,600 acres of excellent land for the site of the ranch now under construction. He read of the

Time To Think Of Hunting Lease

AUSTIN — With Texas suffering under some of the hottest weather of the year, it might be hard for hunters to start thinking about the fall hunting season.

But the smart ones thought about it long ago, and their hunting leases are sewed up. No doubt there are quite a few leases left, but hunters with no place to hunt will have to scramble.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife magazine made a few suggestions to hunters seeking leases.

The magazine points out that there are four types of lease agreements between landowners and hunters: year-round, limited duration, day hunting and guided hunts for a few days.

The year-round leases usually include hunting privileges on all species and are made by a small group of hunters.

Leases of limited duration vary from an entire season to one week within the season.

Day hunting accommodates large numbers of hunters unable to devote extensive time to the sport.

Guided hunts are usually specialized ones for exotic big game but also include native species.

The best lease agreement is a written one because it spells out conditions of the lease for the protection of both parties and prevents misunderstandings.

A written hunting lease should cover the following points: what is leased, name of parties, description of tract including size and boundaries, the terms of the lease including the amount and time of payment, the duration of the lease, who is to hunt and the species of game animals, fish, game birds and varmints which

Fishermen Must Date Trotlines

Trotline fishermen had better start carrying three-month calendars around in their pockets.

An angler who checks his lines after they have been set for 90 days and finds them missing shouldn't accuse his fishing buddy of pilfering.

As of July 22, Parks and Wildlife game management officers have the authority to remove all freshwater trotlines which have been in place for over 90 days and those which are undated.

Trotliners are required by law to tag their lines with name and address of the owner and the date the line was set and to redate them after 90 days.

The tags must be of a material at least as durable as the trotline itself.

Record Carp Caught On Plastic Worm

Bass fishermen know that plastic worms are dynamite when it comes to landing lunkers.

But Scott Lee Helsley of Richardson found that a worm can also be deadly on carp. He caught a 41-pound carp on a plastic worm, and it turned out to be a state record.

Helsley caught the fish in the Pure Oil Lake in Van Zandt County after a 45-minute struggle on 15-pound line.

The fish was 37 inches long and had a girth of 32 1/2 inches.

Helsley's record fish replaces the old record of 23 pounds, 12 ounces held by Vic Tinsley of Fort Worth since 1968.

Baylor Sets October Homecoming

WACO — Annual Homecoming activities at Baylor University are set for the weekend of Oct. 27 and 28, Raymond Vickrey, director of the Baylor Ex-Students Association, has announced.

Baylor tradition will rule the weekend with such activities as mass meetings, class reunions, receptions, Pigskin Revue, Singspiration, bonfire, pep rally, Cabaret, the Homecoming parade through downtown Waco and the selection of the Homecoming queen.

But Homecoming will be a whole new ball game on the football field. Baylor alumni and students will be seeing the traditional game played with a new cast of characters and with a new backdrop.

New head football coach Grant Teaff and his coaching staff will be directing Baylor's 1972 football team against the Aggies from Texas A&M University in the Saturday evening game.

Not only will the Bears be under new leadership, but they also will be playing on the newly installed AstroTurf in Baylor Stadium.

Highlighting Homecoming activities will be the announcement and presentation of two outstanding alumni for 1972.

More Homecoming events and details of the activities will be announced in the coming weeks.
